

January 9, 2010

The American College of Prosthodontists Education Foundation is pleased to announce the 2010 Postgraduate Student Support Program that sponsors ACP membership dues for all prosthodontic residents.

The ACPEF Board of Directors is committed to the future of our specialty, and most importantly to supporting prosthodontic residents. The 2010 Postgraduate Student Support Program is designed to provide exceptional value and benefits for all prosthodontic residents who become members of the College.

ACP membership provides all residents an introduction to the community of prosthodontics and information necessary to maximize your training and education. Just to highlight one of the many ACP membership benefits, the new ACP Prosthopedia[®] digital library will surely be a resource that you will enjoy having access to while you progress through your prosthodontic training.

The College will mark its 40th Anniversary in 2010 with monthly highlights about ACP's rich history and ways for you to celebrate prosthodontics, culminating with special events at the Annual Session in November. In addition, the College will launch the first National Prosthodontics Awareness Week (NPAW) from March 7-13. Prosthodontic residents are encouraged to participate in local awareness activities in their area.

This will definitely be an exciting year for the members of the ACP, defined by landmark events that will change prosthodontics now and in the future. We hope to see you in November at our 40th Annual Meeting in Orlando. The ACP Education Foundation is proud to support your prosthodontic education and wishes you much success in your career.

Sincerely,

Stephen D. Campbell, D.D.S., M.M.Sc.
