The future of dentistry is here, and prosthodontists are poised to lead the way.
This symposium is designed for dental professionals who want to learn state-of-the-art digital solutions for the treatment of restorative patients. Clinicians who want their practices to lead the future of dental care delivery systems are encouraged to attend. Best practices and actual clinical workflows essential to achieving the highest clinical and esthetic results will be showcased. Attendees will receive the latest information on digital treatment technologies ranging from individual tooth restoration to complex reconstruction and rehabilitation.

Who Should Attend
Prosthodontists, general dentists, dental laboratory technicians, dental specialists with an interest in both clinical and laboratory technology, residents, and dental students.
