Dr. Jack Piermatti Honored with Private Practice Award for Northeast Region 1
by the American College of Prosthodontists

CHICAGO — Jack Piermatti, DMD, FACP, has been honored with the private practice award for Northeast region 1 by the American College of Prosthodontists (ACP). Dr. Piermatti and four of his peers were honored earlier this month during the 44th Annual Session of the ACP held in New Orleans from Nov. 5-8.

Dr. Piermatti is a board certified prosthodontist based in Voorhees, N.J., who has performed more than 17,000 dental implants in his 35-year career. The ACP recognition is given to the practitioner in each of five US regions whose contributions to the specialty or to the College are “outstanding and substantial.” This is a lifetime award and can be earned just once.

“To be recognized by your peers is a great honor,” says Dr. Piermatti. “Our practice’s goal is always to be on the cutting edge of prosthodontics, in service to both the specialty itself and the community.”

Dr. Piermatti is an associate professor of Prosthodontics at Rutgers University School of Dental Medicine, where he also is the director of the Dental Implant Maxicourse. He is vice-president and board examiner for the American Board of Oral Implantology (ABOI), and is one of fewer than 20 practitioners worldwide to be double board-certified as a diplomate of both the ABOI and the American Board of Prosthodontics. Dr. Piermatti is a Fellow of the ACP, the International College of Dentists and the American Academy of Implant Dentistry.

He is known for his charisma and passion, inspiring professionals everywhere. Dr. Piermatti completed his general practice residency at St. Joseph’s Hospital and Medical Center of New Jersey, implantology training at Brookdale Hospital and New York University College of Dentistry, and his post-graduate training in Prosthodontics at UMDNJ-New Jersey Dental School. He lectures nationally on the subject of dental implant surgery and implant Prosthodontics.

“Dr. Piermatti has devoted his entire career to the advancement of Prosthodontics and implant dentistry. I have seen him lecture to large audiences, give small seminars, conduct hands-on over-the-shoulder courses, and he invites dentists and dental students, individually, to observe in his office -- all with a zeal that I have not seen in many practitioners,” said John Nikas, DMD.

Prosthodontists are specialized dentists with advanced training in oral health issues, who are committed to improving patient outcomes. From implants, crowns, veneers and tooth whitening, to full-mouth reconstruction, Prosthodontists specialize in digital dentistry and CAD/CAM solutions.
